Invite You to a Lunch Discussion with Virginia State Delegate Mark Keam

Mark Keam was born in Korea and lived in Vietnam and Australia before moving to America when he was a teenager. In November 2009, Keam became the first Asian immigrant elected to the Virginia General Assembly. Delegate Keam represents the 35th District (Fairfax County) in the House of Delegates and serves on the House Finance and Public Safety Committees. As a rare Asian American holding office in Virginia's state government, Delegate Keam will share his views on his experiences and issues affecting our communities.
